MESSAGE FROM THE CO-CHAIRS

2016–17 has seen the work of the Inter Faith Network for the UK develop and strengthen in many ways. From supporting and encouraging inter faith initiatives, publishing resources, and sharing good practice, to assisting individuals and organisations up and down the country, IFN's work continues to go from strength to strength.

The year also saw IFN's 30th anniversary marked with a special National Meeting at the Queen Elizabeth II conference centre in London. We were delighted to welcome representatives of IFN member bodies, and so many that have made such significant contributions to our work and served over the past three decades. The day was both a celebration of what has been achieved thus far, and a chance to 'move forward together'.

Inter Faith Week has continued to be a key component of IFN's annual work, and 2016 saw the biggest Week yet, with more events held and more people reached than ever before. A new resource, Next Steps, was published to assist participants in Inter Faith Week to build on their experience and get further involved in inter faith activity.

IFN continues to work closely with its member bodies, across all four categories of membership, and their vital work continues. Information about IFN member bodies can be found at www.interfaith.org.uk/members.

This was also a year that witnessed many tragic and painful events that tested inter faith relations in the UK. The challenges posed by the rise in hate crime since the EU referendum continued. Terrorist attacks on Westminster Bridge, at the Manchester Arena, in Finsbury Park and London Bridge, were terrible events that shook the nation. The response from faith communities was humbling and inspiring, as people across the country came together to denounce hatred in all its forms.

This Review contains a section on 'responding together', highlighting the many ways in which faith and inter faith bodies did just this. IFN published an updated edition of Looking After One Another: The Safety and Security of our Faith Communities. These events also reiterated the need for dialogue, and to this end, IFN also published a special dialogue-focused resource, Let's Talk.

The Grenfell tower fire in June was also one of the most terrible disasters in recent times. In the wake of this faith communities individually and collectively worked tirelessly to support those affected. This was a true testament to the power of inter faith cooperation in the most difficult circumstances.

We thank IFN's member bodies, Trustees, staff and volunteers, and our donors and funders, all of whom make IFN's work possible, for all of their hard work throughout the year. We do hope that readers of this review will consider making a donation to IFN to help us build a society where we live and work with a shared commitment to the common good.

We close this message by re-stating our unwavering commitment to building good relations between the faith communities of the UK and holding all those working for this in our thoughts and prayers. As IFN celebrates 30 years of work, we must also look forward to redoubling our efforts to build a society characterised by mutual respect, cooperation and understanding.

The Inter Faith Network for the UK

ABOUT THE INTER FAITH NETWORK FOR THE UK

The Inter Faith Network for the UK (IFN) was founded in 1987 to “advance public knowledge and mutual understanding of the teachings, traditions and practices of the different faith communities in Britain, including an awareness both of their distinctive features and their common ground and to promote good relations between persons of different faiths.”

IFN’s role is unique: linking national faith community representative bodies, local, regional and national inter faith organisations and academic and educational bodies with a focus on inter faith or multi-faith issues and working with them to deepen inter faith understanding and cooperation as part of working for the common good.

This Review

This Annual Review highlights the work of the Inter Faith Network between the October 2016 AGM and the July 2017 AGM. It complements the formal Trustees’ Report published as part of the Statutory Accounts which are available on the Charity Commission website.

IFN works for the public benefit and its work is wide-ranging, touching the lives of many thousands of people directly and through the organisations and initiatives with which it engages. Working with its member bodies is an important part of this.

Each of IFN’s member bodies makes its own contributions to inter faith understanding and cooperation in the UK.

A list of member bodies can be found at the back of this Review and more can be found out about these in the member body section of IFN’s website at www.interfaith.org.uk/members.

Our Vision

Our vision is of a society where there is understanding of the diversity and richness of the faith communities in the UK and the contribution that they make and where we live and work together with mutual respect and shared commitment to the common good.

Our Mission

Working with faith communities, inter faith organisations, educators and others to increase understanding and cooperation between people of different faiths and to widen public awareness of the distinctive religious traditions in the UK.

Working to achieve this through: supporting and encouraging inter faith initiatives and sharing good practice between these; helping create opportunities for mutual learning and tackling prejudice; and offering opportunity for engagement between faith communities and Government and other public agencies on relevant issues.

The 2017 National Meeting for IFN member bodies took place in July at the Queen Elizabeth II Conference Centre, London. Its theme was ‘Moving Forward Together’. The day was chaired by the Co-Chairs of IFN, the Rt Revd Richard Atkinson OBE and Jatinder Singh Birdi.

The meeting celebrated the 30th Anniversary of IFN, which was founded in 1987. It looked forward and outward, and provided a focus for discussion on the future of inter faith relations in the UK and of how we live well together as people of different faiths – as well as with people of non-religious beliefs. The meeting used some of the key publications and projects of IFN as a basis for discussion.

The day began with a minute’s silence to remember all who lost their lives in recent terrorist attacks, and those working for good inter faith relations.

During the plenary session:

- Dr Harriet Crabtree OBE, Executive Director, Inter Faith Network for the UK, spoke on ‘Past, present, future’, reflecting on the contribution of IFN and its member bodies to inter faith relations in the UK across the last thirty years, in the present and into the future.

THE 30TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE INTER FAITH NETWORK FOR THE UK

As noted previously, the National Meeting in July marked 30 years since the founding of the Inter Faith Network for the UK, in 1987. This was incorporated into the theme of the day, 'Moving Forward Together', and was marked at lunch time with a special presentation. The day celebrated 30 years of IFN and its member bodies working together for inter faith understanding and cooperation, but also looked forward and outward to the future of inter faith relations in the UK.

Formal thanks were first offered to the member bodies of the Inter Faith Network, who ensure that together we are stronger and better able to respond to the needs of our multi faith society by working with one another to build inter faith understanding and cooperation and to strengthen good inter faith relations.

There were a number of specially invited short reflections on behalf of various sections of IFN's membership.

There were then formal thanks offered to:

- The Most Revd Father Olu Abiola OBE, Mr Nitin Palan MBE and Maulana M Shahid Raza OBE on behalf of all past Trustees, including many who had served over a number of years and many of whom continue to make their contribution to good inter faith relations either directly to IFN or through other routes

- Ms Celia Blackden, who was visiting from the Focolare Centre in Rome, on behalf of those Trustees sadly no longer with us, but whose service gave tremendous support to IFN's work over many years. This included the long and valuable service of Bishop Charles Henderson to whom she had been personal assistant
- Mr Brian Pearce OBE as founding Director and on behalf of all past staff, volunteers and supporters, who was thanked for his significant contribution to IFN. Lord Singh of Wimbledon CBE was also thanked earlier in the meeting for his contribution as a founding Officer of IFN as he was unable to be present for the presentations. Presentation photographs were given to Mr Pearce and Lord Singh

A special anniversary cake was then cut in celebration by all those who were thanked or offered reflections.

Special display boards featuring photographs from across IFN's three decades of work were also on display during breaks in plenary.

RESPONDING TOGETHER

During the period covered by this review, a number of terrorist attacks took place which had a significant impact on communities in the UK: Westminster Bridge in March; Manchester Arena in May; and London Bridge and Finsbury Park in June.

Hate crime linked to religious and racial identity continued to be a major issue during the year. This was against a backdrop of a rise in hate crime. For England and Wales, for example, the number of hate crimes in England and Wales increased by 29%, according to Home Office statistics. The Home Office also noted a spike in hate crime around the time of the EU referendum and rises after the Westminster Bridge, Manchester Arena and London Bridge attacks.

IFN supported and encouraged inter faith and multi-faith responses, through being in touch with relevant bodies at key points and making connections to help strengthen the response, making statements, sharing of news, provision of guidance and highlighting relevant programmes such as the Government’s fund for places of worship, the recipients of which were announced in November 2016.

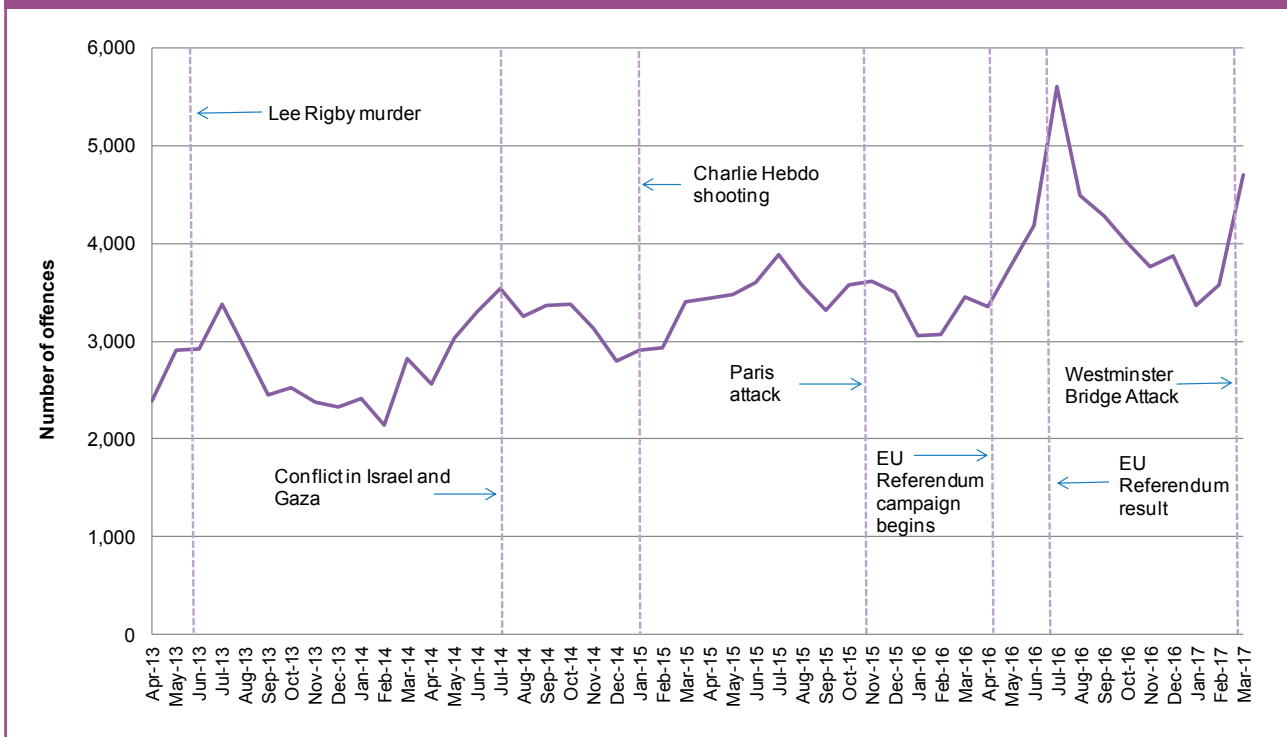

Responding to terrorists’ abuse of religion and attempts to divide

The statements by the Co-Chairs and the Moderators of the Faith Communities Forum conveyed strongly the significance of responding together as one, expressing a collective condemnation of violent and hateful acts in the name of religion and disavowing purported religious justification by terrorists, violent extremists and those that commit hate crimes. They were widely shared and used. All statements and messages from the Co-Chairs can be seen at www.interfaith.org.uk/news/statements-and-messages. Some extracts are reproduced here:

“Terrorism is profoundly at odds with the values of our faith traditions and the values at the heart of British society. We deplore and condemn it. Attacks of this kind are designed to disrupt our society and to undermine the relationships within it. Let us resist this at all costs and stand together in unity. Let us also watch out for the wellbeing of any groups who may be targeted because of terrorist actions which claim, or are perceived by some, as having a link to them. There is no place for prejudice and hatred of that kind and where it is found, let us redouble efforts to combat it.”

EXTRACT FROM STATEMENT FOLLOWING WESTMINSTER ATTACKS IN LONDON

“We deplore and condemn this wanton, brutal and cowardly taking of the lives of young and old. Let us stand together to oppose terrorism and the ideologies that promote it. Let us also uphold and strengthen the unity of our society and work to ensure that it is a positive and harmonious one where all children and young people can grow up safely and without fear. It is vital that we – of every age and background – work to build bridges and positive relationships and to enable difficult issues to be addressed and worked on – always seeking to avoid the use of violence to resolve issues. We know that each time a terrorist attack occurs, groups within society become the target of abuse or even attack because of terrorist actions which claim, or are perceived by some, as having a link to them. We must stand, likewise, against this. An attack on one is an attack on all.”

EXTRACT FROM STATEMENT FOLLOWING MANCHESTER ARENA ATTACK

“We must continue to work together for a respectful and positive society where people feel valued and included and safe and where all can flourish free from fear. Attacks such as these can bring scapegoating and acts of hatred in their wake. Let us work to try and prevent that and respond together to assist wherever necessary. We know that, just as following the recent attack in Manchester, inter faith organisations in London will be playing an important role in the days and weeks to come. They are also in our thoughts at this time.”

EXTRACT FROM STATEMENT FOLLOWING LONDON BRIDGE ATTACK

“Where terrorism seeks to wear the face of religion, or where innocent people connected to mosques or other places of worship are the subject of hatred and attack because of perceived links to terrorism, we must stand up for their safety and their right to live free from prejudice, suspicion and hatred. We must continue to stand together, support each other and work together for the common good.”

EXTRACT FROM STATEMENT FOLLOWING FINSBURY PARK ATTACK

Note: In urgent situations, the Co-Chairs and the Moderators of the Faith Communities Forum may make a joint statement in their capacities as Officers of IFN and representatives of the Faith Communities Forum respectively, and on their own behalf, which does not then commit member bodies. Statements can be made on events that affect inter faith relations in the UK, or on overseas events when these directly affect relations between faith communities in this country.

Respond jointly – an attack on one is an attack on all

Some attacks, or threats of attack, appear linked to racist or religious hatred or are designed to stir this up. We believe that it is vital for faith communities to respond jointly and to show solidarity. Some ways to do this are:

- At a time of tension or following an attack use pre-agreed communication routes, such as WhatsApp, and email or telephone for mutual support and assistance. Check with your local police force that your place of worship or other faith based premises are part of such a network.
- Report any attacks directly to the police, either in person, by phone or online (details under Resources).
- Go together as faith leaders of different faiths to visit any faith community property that has been attacked or is under threat.
- Take action as members of local faith communities – of a kind agreed with the faith community directly affected – in support of a place of worship or faith based premises which has been attacked or vandalised. For example, work with local inter faith groups and others to arrange clean up teams to go and assist if buildings have been defaced or damaged and the community in question would like help in this way.
- Meet as faith communities with police representatives of the Fire and Rescue Service, the local authority and members of the community safety partnership to discuss and implement appropriate measures to provide reassurance for the community or communities affected.
- When reporting an attack or hate incident to the police be clear if it was, in your opinion, motivated by hostility based on faith (or indeed any other personal characteristic). This includes any instance where it is believed that someone has been attacked in the

Reporting hate incidents

Not all hate incidents will amount to criminal offences, but those that do become hate crimes. Hate crimes are any crimes that are targeted at a person because of hostility or prejudice towards that person's disability, race or ethnicity, religion or belief, sexual orientation, or transgender identity. They can be committed against a person or property and may include verbal abuse, physical abuse, attacks on premises or online abuse. A victim does not have to be a member of the group at which the hostility is targeted. In fact, anyone could be a victim of a hate crime.

Any form of hate incident can be reported to the bodies listed below.

There are four ways of reporting hate incidents to the police: in person, in writing, by telephone and or on-line.

The police are also a number of third party reporting routes such as those listed below. If you report a hate incident to the police, the details will automatically be provided to the police.

Guidance

In April IFN published Looking after one another: The safety and security of our faith communities in partnership with the then Department for Communities and Local Government, the Home Office, the Crown Prosecution Service, the National Police Chiefs' Council and the National Fire Chiefs Council.

The document was sent to all member bodies, to local authorities and was also shared on IFN's website and on social media. It contains guidance on:

- responding jointly to attacks on places of worship;
- working for calm at times of tension;
- how and where to report hate incidents, cyber-attacks, and actual or suspected terrorist activity;
- where to find information on strengthening the security of buildings; and
- where to find information about working to build – and strengthen – good inter faith relations locally.

“This practical guidance will give people of all faiths confidence to stand up to the perpetrators of hate crime. We need to work together to tackle all forms of prejudice.”

LORD BOURNE OF ABERYSTWYTH, MINISTER FOR FAITH

“It is important that Britain's many communities work in partnership, particularly in times of difficulty such as after a terrorist attack – so the Inter Faith Network's timely advice is very welcome.”

SARAH NEWTON, THEN MINISTER FOR VULNERABILITY, SAFEGUARDING AND COUNTERING EXTREMISM

“Looking After One Another is an excellent guide to ensuring that we all look after each other and all stand together”

INFORMATION, ADVICE AND SHARING GOOD PRACTICE

An important way that IFN helps to increase awareness of the teachings, traditions and practices of the different faith communities in the UK and to promote good relations between people of different faiths is through providing information and advice.

During this period IFN continued to act as a key source of advice and information on inter faith issues in the UK, working with its member bodies to do so, and providing contact details to assist in connecting enquirers with those who may be best able to help them. As well as individual members of the public, organisations using this service during the period included Government Departments, local authorities, other public bodies, voluntary organisations, educational institutions and the media.

IFN helps through its telephone helpline and also has an online enquiry form. Increasingly enquiries and requests for help also come in through Facebook and Twitter.

The nature of IFN's work means that a number of its conversations with enquirers are ones where people have rung on a confidential basis because they are seeking advice on handling a particular issue affecting inter faith relations in their area.

In some cases, IFN staff are involved with projects on a longer term basis, where this is seen as fitting with IFN's aims and helping to carry these out. For example, this year has seen continued engagement with the Equality and Diversity Forum, the Near Neighbours Programme of the Church Urban Fund and the Church of England, and the Religious Education Council of England and Wales.

Staff visits and attendance at events are also an important part of this work of keeping people in touch and sharing good practice. These included attending the launch of the Great British Chai Party and International Women's Day event at the House of Commons; speaking at an event held by the Inter Faith Forum for Leicestershire; attending an event at the St Ethelburga's Centre on 'Envisioning a post-Brexit future together: an intergenerational dialogue'; and participating in a radio interview on Premier Radio about the attack at Finsbury Park Mosque and inter faith relations.

ENQUIRIES

Here are just a few of the types of enquiries to which IFN has responded this year...

- Can you give me some advice on starting a young peoples' inter faith group in my local area?
- How do I go about setting up a local inter faith organisation where I live?
- Where can I find volunteering opportunities at inter faith organisations?
- Can you provide me with any support or materials to assist with inter faith understanding in the workplace?
- How many local inter faith groups are there in London, and how does this compare to a decade ago?
- What inter faith events are happening in my local area?
- I regularly organise training for the company I work for. Can you tell me which dates I should avoid due to events linked with religion and belief?
- An opportunity has arisen for us to create a local multi faith space. Can you provide any guidance as to what it should contain?
- Can you let me know how I can contact national faith community bodies to invite speakers to an event?

E-BULLETIN

IFN produces a bi-monthly e-bulletin packed with news about inter faith projects and resources and with updates about key faith and public life developments. It is sent to subscribers and is also available on the IFN website. Readership increased during the year. Members of the public can subscribe to the E-Bulletin on the homepage of the IFN website at www.interfaith.org.uk/#signup.

“What an amazing compendium!”

“Thanks for this wonderful Newsletter, packed with masses of useful information and news.”

E-BULLETIN READERS

CIRCULARS

IFN issued Circulars throughout the year to draw member bodies' attention to a wide range of issues and opportunities. They helped to keep members in touch with relevant faith and public life issues, Inter Faith Network news, and the work of other relevant bodies, such as the Equality and Human Rights Commission. 34 circulars were sent during the period covered by this review.

WEBSITES

IFN's websites are a very important way of providing information, advice and sharing good practice. IFN has two websites: www.interfaith.org.uk, which is its main organisational website, and www.interfaithweek.org for its Inter Faith Week programme.

A newly structured and designed Inter Faith Week website was launched in October in time for Inter Faith Week 2016 (see page 30) and a new Inter Faith Network website followed in February 2017. The new websites have many additional features and, at the same time, have been designed for clarity and simplicity of use.

“The website was much easier to use this year – both to add events and to see what was going on.”

INTER FAITH WEEK WEBSITE USER

TWITTER AND FACEBOOK

IFN runs separate Facebook and Twitter accounts for the Inter Faith Network and Inter Faith Week.

Twitter and Facebook are two of the most widely used ways that social media users learn about inter faith news and opportunities. During this period, IFN increased its use of these significantly.

“The Inter Faith Network plays a crucial role in increasing understanding between faith communities and underpinning community cohesion. I hope that it can continue to emphasise the shared values between faith communities which are far greater than differences.”

LET'S TALK: PRACTICAL POINTERS FOR INTER FAITH DIALOGUE

Part of living well together in a diverse society is being able to mix and to have conversations about what matters to us – including about difficult issues. In the course of the year, IFN worked with its member bodies to create a special resource to encourage fruitful dialogue.

Let's Talk – Practical pointers for inter faith dialogue contains sections on:

- Why dialogue?
- An overview of dialogue in the UK, and its varieties
- The practicalities of dialogue
- How to approach difficult issues
- Widening the circle of dialogue

The resource is designed for people wanting to get involved in inter faith dialogue for the first time as well as those working to develop or deepen particular forms of dialogue on behalf of an organisation or community. It includes short reflections and practical examples to inspire and encourage further discussion and engagement.

Let's Talk can be downloaded on the IFN website at www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/lets-talk-practical-pointers-for-inter-faith-dialogue.

IFN Trustees Acharya Modgala Duguid, Network of Buddhist Organisations, and Dr Maureen Sier, Interfaith Scotland, promoting Let's Talk

“The Inter Faith Network’s recent publication Let’s Talk has been produced as a practical guide for those wanting to get involved in inter faith dialogue. It is the fruit of this organisation’s experience in engaging across over 200 member bodies. Though it shares short reflections and practical examples, I believe the heart of this publication touches on why dialogue is important.”

National Faith Community Representative Bodies in membership of IFN share a commitment to working for the wellbeing of wider society and to developing inter faith understanding and cooperation. All such bodies have their own programmes of work and patterns of engagement with other communities, as well as with Government and other agencies.

Multi faith engagement on these issues is not a substitute for these. At the same time, there is great value in the faith communities discussing collectively, on a regular basis, issues of common concern and exchanging information about their programmes of work. The Faith Communities Forum (FCF) is the IFN framework which provides the opportunity for this form of engagement on inter faith and faith and public life issues.

Meetings of the Forum took place in November 2016 and in March and May 2017. Each meeting included sharing of news and information about National Faith Community Representative Bodies' own work and particular issues of concern.

On the agenda were a wide range of issues including:

Participants in dialogue at the November FCF meeting

- The inter faith activity of national faith community representative bodies.
- The Government's response to the refugee crisis, including a presentation from Hannah Gregory, then Head of Partnership Team, Resettlement Programmes, Home Office, on the Government's response to the Syrian refugee crisis and the development of a community sponsorship programme.
- Special social action days, with presentations from Vinaya Sharma, General Secretary, Vishwa Hindu Parishad UK, on Sewa Day; and Daniella Pears, Interfaith Chair, Mitzvah Day, on Mitzvah Day and Mitzvah 365.
- Discussion of the Casey Review report with a presentation from Dr Karen Jochelson, Director, Economy and Employment Programme, Equality and Human Rights Commission.
- Discussion of the Equality and Human Rights Commission's guidance on religion and belief in the workplace, with a presentation from Kathleen Jameson, Project Manager, Equality and Human Rights Commission.
- Guidance for faith communities on hustings and canvassing for the General Election.
- The Government's consultation on 'Caste in Great Britain and Equality Law'.
- The Great Get Together, with a presentation from Mike Buckley, Head of Faith Engagement, The Jo Cox Foundation.

Following a request from members of the Forum last year to learn more about different faith perspectives, IFN continued building into FCF Agenda Items a short reflection, relating to the Agenda theme, from a representative of a different faith community member body about its bases for engaging. The meetings across the period covered by this review included reflections from Rabbi David Mason, Board of Deputies for British Jews, on bases within the Jewish tradition for responding to the refugee crisis; from Karl Wightman, National Spiritual Assembly of the Baha'is of the United Kingdom, on bases within the Baha'i tradition for inter faith engagement; and from Bessie White, Quaker Committee for Christian and Interfaith Relations, on bases within the Quaker tradition for working for a just and peaceful world.

ADDING VALUE TO THE IMPORTANT WORK OF NATIONAL AND REGIONAL INTER FAITH ORGANISATIONS

Among IFN's member bodies are inter faith organisations and programmes whose work is carried out at UK or national level or which, while regionally focused, are used by people across the country. They are important resources for people who want to get involved in inter faith activity.

A number of these, such as the Joseph Interfaith Foundation, work primarily with particular religious traditions; others, such as Religions for Peace UK, work with people of any religion or belief. Some of the organisations have a particular area of focus for their work such as the Women's Interfaith Network. Others, such as Christians Aware Faith Awareness Programme, are initiatives run by a particular faith tradition and have a focus on the engagement of these with wider society but seek also to increase understanding between and about faiths beyond their tradition.

IFN adds value to the work of these organisations through making it known and through sharing information and ideas through its meetings and its e-bulletin and social media.

A meeting for member National and Regional Inter Faith Organisations took place in London in June. This was for both these bodies and IFN member bodies in the Educational and Academic Bodies category to discuss their use of arts and culture for inter faith engagement. A presentation on this topic was given by Barbara Bennett from Cambridge Inter-faith Programme. Other topics of discussion included updates on member bodies' current inter faith work, including key projects and responses to recent terrorist attacks; and IFN matters such as Inter Faith Week and the update of the Connect youth inter faith action guide.

INTER FAITH LINKING BODIES

The Inter Faith Network links in membership the national inter faith linking bodies of the devolved nations: Interfaith Scotland; the Inter-Faith Council for Wales; and the Northern Ireland Inter-Faith Forum. These are represented on IFN’s Board. IFN works closely with these bodies and each year convenes a meeting with them to enable sharing of news and good practice.

The annual meetings rotate between Northern Ireland, Scotland and Wales. The 2017 meeting took place in June, hosted by the Northern Ireland Inter-Faith Forum at Clonard Monastery in Belfast. Clonard has an important place in the history of the peace process in Northern Ireland and a member of its Peace and Reconciliation Mission gave participants a special guided tour.

Issues on the agenda included security and hate crime; how to involve young people in inter faith activity; and using Inter Faith Week and Scottish Interfaith Week in 2017 as a platform for inter faith dialogue.

SUPPORTING GRASSROOTS ENGAGEMENT

‘Good inter faith relations’ is about people. It is about how all of us get on with our neighbours and contribute to shaping the world around us. For people of different faiths that includes expressing their faith through their day to day life and finding ways to live well with those of other faiths and beliefs. Local inter faith groups play a significant role in helping this happen at grassroots level.

There are currently around 250 local inter faith organisations spread across all four nations of the UK. Some link many faiths; others, such as local branches of the Council of Christians and Jews, have a focus on building good relations between particular faiths in a local area.¹

IFN supports this grassroots activity through support and advice. It does that through responding to enquiries, visiting and speaking with groups and by enabling practitioners to share insights and practical learning through attending meetings and contributing to resources. This helps strengthen their programmes and, through this, the local communities in which they operate.

What are local inter faith organisations?

Local inter faith organisations bring people of different faiths together in a specific area or locality. They vary in their makeup and programmes but their work usually includes some or all of the following activities:

- Promoting inter faith understanding through discussion/dialogue
- Joint social action projects
- Visits to places of worship
- Faith trails and multi faith walks or pilgrimages
- Educational events or exhibitions
- Assisting on multi faith civic ceremonies
- Shared meals
- Inter Faith Week events
- Providing speakers to help school children learn about different faiths from practitioners as part of Religious Education
- Working to prevent community tensions and also to respond to these when necessary
- Enabling and supporting joint responses to major events
- Diversity training
- Providing advice and assistance to public bodies

¹ Inter faith groups in Scotland are linked by Interfaith Scotland. Further information is available at www.interfaithscotland.org.

- the importance of local inter faith work
- work in schools to increase religious literacy
- use of Inter Faith Week for cooperation and outreach
- funding and resourcing local inter faith work
- reaching out and growing involvement
- using social media and digital communication for greater impact

Sharing local inter faith experience and good practice: An event to mark Inter Faith Week

During Inter Faith Week 2016 (see page 30) the All Party Parliamentary Interfaith Group, with IFN, held a special event at the Houses of Parliament on the theme of 'Sharing local inter faith experience and good practice'.

Inter faith engagement at local level is increasingly important. It is of many kinds: from one off initiatives to organisations which work across the years to promote inter faith understanding and cooperation in their areas. Discussion at this event highlighted the work of local inter faith bodies, with three examples of very different groups working with people of many backgrounds on issues from youth, to refugee support, hate crime and mental health, as well as increasing religious literacy.

Mike Stygal, Pagan Federation and Jaskiran Kaur Mehmi

The meeting was opened by the Chairs of the All Party Parliamentary Interfaith Group, Lord Harries of Pentregarth and Sir Peter Bottomley MP, with a welcome to all present. Mr Jatinder Singh Birdi, Co-Chair, Inter Faith Network for the UK, also offered some opening reflections.

Presenters from three local inter faith organisations offered reflections on their work and its importance. These were:

- Rabbi Warren Elf and the Revd Andy Williams, Faith Network for Manchester
- Jacquie Grieve and Vinaya Sharma, Redbridge Faiths Forum
- Lynnda Wardle and Mohamed Omar, Interfaith Glasgow

The event was attended by a wide range of parliamentarians, from both Houses of Parliament, and local inter faith practitioners from across the UK.

“Supporting, encouraging and advocating for local inter faith groups is a key part of the work of the Inter Faith Network. We do this not just through Inter Faith Week but year round.”

EDUCATION AND RELIGIOUS LITERACY

IFN’s member bodies include a number of educational and academic bodies which, in different ways, work to promote inter faith understanding and cooperation in the UK. Some are specialist academic institutions researching aspects of inter faith relations and others are educational bodies with a focus on particular areas, such as Religious Education in schools.

Meeting of Educational and Academic Bodies

As noted on p 21, the Educational and Academic Bodies in membership of IFN met with National and Regional Inter Faith Organisations in June. The focus of the meeting was on the role of arts and culture in promoting inter faith learning and engagement.

Barbara Bennett, Cambridge Inter Faith Programme (CIP) spoke about the work being done in conjunction with Southbank Centre’s programme of activity called Belief and Beyond Belief. The programme looked at what it is to be human and the role of belief through art. Rudolf Elliott Lockhart, RE Council of England and Wales, updated members on the work of the Commission on RE which is an independent commission set up by the RE Council to review the legal and policy frameworks for RE, and the academisation programme’s impact on RE in England.

The meeting also included an opportunity for updates on member bodies’ current inter faith work, including key projects and responses to recent terrorist attacks; and IFN matters such as Inter Faith Week and the update of the Connect youth inter faith action guide.

Learning Together resources

In 2016–17 a special strand of IFN’s work was ‘Learning Together’. During the year IFN added a new section to its website, entitled ‘Education’, which includes information about the contours of Religious Education provision in the UK, including information about different types of schools and about Standing Advisory Councils on Religious Education (SACREs). This was developed in consultation with bodies in IFN’s Educational and Academic category of membership which work in the field of RE. It can be found at www.interfaith.org.uk/activity/education and includes the following sections:

Rudolf Elliott Lockhart, Chief Executive, Religious Education Council of England and Wales, speaking at IFN's National Meeting

- Religious Education across the UK
- Types of schools and their Religious Education across the UK
- Understanding SACREs

Emphasising the importance of RE and highlighting religious literacy

The importance of Religious Education as part of developing a society marked by mutual understanding and religious literacy has always been recognised strongly by IFN.

At IFN’s 30th Anniversary National Meeting in July Rudolf Elliott Lockhart, Chief Executive, Religious Education Council of England and Wales, offered plenary reflections on the critical importance of Religious Education in 21st century Britain and spoke about the significance of the long term relationship between the RE Council and the Inter Faith Network for the UK and their mutually strengthening work.

A presentation was included at the local inter faith practitioners day in Bristol in March on ‘Working to increase religious literacy and counter prejudice’. This highlighted the important part that local inter faith initiatives play in countering prejudice and increasing understanding about different faiths and beliefs. A joint presentation was made by Canon Dr John Hall, Devon Faith and Belief Group and Trustee, Inter Faith Network for the UK; Ravindra Nathwani, Exeter Faith and Belief Group; and Cllr Chaz Singh, Plymouth Council of Faiths and the Turban Project.

INTER FAITH WEEK

THE AIMS OF INTER FAITH WEEK ARE TO:

- Strengthen good inter faith relations at all levels
- Increase awareness of the different and distinct faith communities in the UK, in particular celebrating and building on the contribution which their members make to their neighbourhoods and to wider society
- Increase understanding between people of religious and non-religious beliefs

Inter Faith Week takes place each year in November.

Building good relationships and working partnerships between people of different faiths and beliefs is part of the year-round work of many people and organisations across the UK.

Having a special Week provides a focal point, helping to open inter faith activity up to a wider audience so that more and more people are made aware of the importance of this vital work and are able to participate in it.

The Inter Faith Week programme is a key part of IFN's work.

The Week was first held in England and Wales during 2009, with Northern Ireland participating for the first time in 2010. IFN works closely with the national inter faith linking bodies of these nations on the Week. The pioneering Scottish Interfaith Week has taken place since 2004 and is led by Interfaith Scotland. More information can be found at www.scottishinterfaithweek.org.

Inter Faith Week 2016 ran from Sunday 13 to Sunday 20 November.

The preparation, support and promotion of the Week was an important part of IFN's work in the months leading up to the Week including publicity, research, posting events to the event map on the Inter Faith Week website, and encouraging media interest.

Messages of encouragement were offered in advance of the week by The Rt Hon Theresa May MP, Prime Minister; The Rt Hon Sajid Javid MP, then Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government; and Lord Bourne of Aberystwyth, Parliamentary Under Secretary of State with responsibility for Faith and Integration at the then Department for Communities and Local Government.

“Inter Faith Week is an excellent opportunity to celebrate the incredible diversity and richness of faith communities in Britain. It is also a chance for people of all faiths to come together and to highlight the invaluable contribution they collectively make to their neighbourhoods and to wider society”.

THE RT HON THERESA MAY MP, PRIME MINISTER

“Inter Faith Week is all about bringing people together to help improve understanding of different faiths and to share what we have in common. I hope lots of people will get involved and celebrate the different faiths that make up British life”.

THE RT HON SAJID JAVID MP, THEN SECRETARY OF STATE FOR COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

“We are greatly enriched by the diversity of faiths that call our country home, all of whom play an integral part in their local communities. Inter Faith Week is a terrific way for people to learn from one another and celebrate the tremendous amount we have in common”.

LORD BOURNE OF ABERYSTWYTH, MINISTER FOR FAITH AT THE THEN DEPARTMENT FOR COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

More events were held to mark the Week than ever before. It was a time for finding out more about each other's faiths and beliefs, getting involved in multi faith social action projects and enjoying many cultural and social events.

A full colour, illustrated report on Inter Faith Week 2016 can be downloaded from the Inter Faith Week website at www.interfaithweek.org/resources/inter-faith-week-stories-from-2016-inspiration-for-2017.

New for 2016

The Inter Faith Week Toolkit, developed and published in the earlier part of 2016, was available to participants in the Week for the first time. The Toolkit was widely used to assist with planning events, and provided inspiration to people and organisations from a wide variety of backgrounds. The Toolkit can be downloaded on the Inter Faith Week website at www.interfaithweek.org/resources/toolkit.

In October 2016 a new Inter Faith Week website was also launched. The new website was designed to a higher security specification and to be more attractive and easier to use. Feedback on the latter has been positive.

Also in 2016, by agreement, Scottish Interfaith Week events were listed on the events map of the Inter Faith Week website for the first time.

Remembering Together

For the first time, the Inter Faith Network for the UK Board of Trustees decided that Inter Faith Week 2016 would begin on Remembrance Sunday, encouraging people of different backgrounds to mark it together, particularly at this time of commemorating the centenary of the First World War in which people of many faiths and beliefs served.

A number of remembrance events took place to mark the Week, some in places of worship, some at war memorials and in other public spaces. Many organisations were involved. There were also events that focused on particular aspects of remembrance, such as the historic contribution of ethnic minority soldiers.

Some events were also organised with a focus on peace or non-violence through services and vigils or celebrations and festivals.

Events and activities

573 events are known to have taken place across England, Wales and Northern Ireland to mark Inter Faith Week 2016. This was the biggest Week to date, and builds on steady growth over recent years.

A wide variety of events took place, including multi faith Remembrance events; peace and non-violence events; activities highlighting the arts, culture and music of the UK's faith communities; celebrations and festivals; pilgrimages, walks, faith trails and open door days; dialogues and discussions; events at higher and further education institutions; those promoting increased religious literacy; school activities; social action projects; sporting activities; women's events; those held by local authorities and public agencies; national events and initiatives; and special projects in the media, online and on social media. Week-long programmes of events were held in many towns and cities.

IFN continued to serve as an associate, alongside Churches Together in England, for the 'Faith Through a Lens' photography competition run by Congregational Insurance, the awards ceremony for which was held during the Week.

The chart at the top of the next page shows a breakdown of events held during the Week by type. The Inter Faith Week website also included events by category for those interested in specific types of event. Many events fall into multiple categories, so the numbers on the chart do not add up to the total number of events. Some examples of events in these categories can be found at www.interfaithweek.org/resources/2016-snapshots.

GROWTH IN EVENTS

A full list of events can be found at www.interfaithweek.org/resources/inter-faith-week-2016-list-of-events-and-activities.

The Week was marked by over 560 organisations of many kinds, including local faith communities; local, national and regional inter faith organisations; chaplaincies; schools, HE and FE organisations; and many more. Event organisers did not always list every partner, so it is likely that more organisations took part than are listed.

As shown in the chart at the bottom of the next page, the organisations varied widely by type. (The figure only includes named organisations that IFN is certain took part in the arrangement of an event/activity.) Events run jointly by several organisations were a common feature of the Week.

“Inter Faith Week encourages you to link with other faith based organisations to jointly work on a project and organise activities. It bonds people of different faiths together for the common good.”

INTER FAITH WEEK 2016 EVENT TYPES

*Mitzvah Day 2016 took place on Sunday 27 November. Because this year it fell a week after Inter Faith Week, its many events with an inter faith dimension are not included (as they were in previous years). However, a small number of Mitzvah Day events which were held early, during Inter Faith Week, are reflected in the chart above.

Inter faith learning, dialogue and cooperation: Next steps

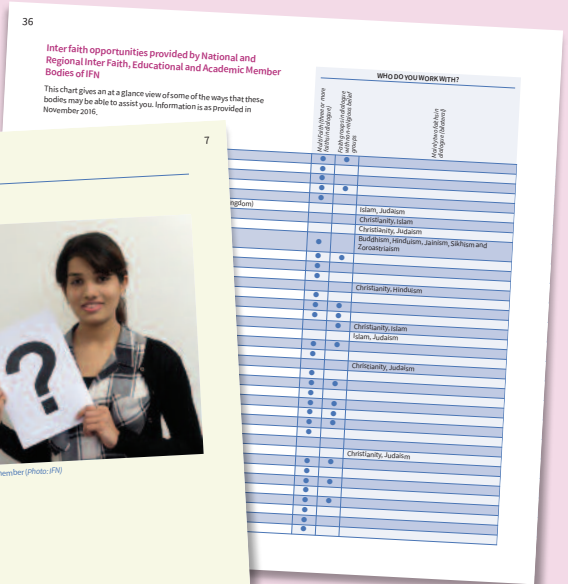

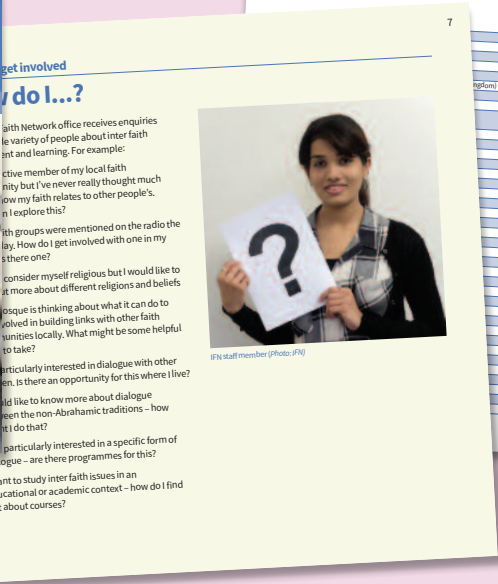

A new resource was developed during the autumn of 2016, published at the end of Inter Faith Week: Inter faith learning, dialogue and cooperation: Next steps.

The resource was developed in the context of Inter Faith Week. Every year thousands of people meet and take part in projects with people of different faiths and beliefs – many for the first time. This resource points to the ‘next steps’ that people can take after Inter Faith Week – or at any time – if they are interested in inter faith dialogue, learning and multi faith cooperation.

The resource provides information about the various ways in which someone might get involved in inter faith conversation, learning or multi faith social action, as well as the kinds of bodies that might be helpful to contact, and the activities and resources they are likely to provide. A list of IFN’s member National Faith Community Representative Bodies, and their web addresses, is included in the final section, along with short profiles and contact details for its member National and Regional Inter Faith Organisations and Educational and Academic bodies. Details of how to get in touch with local inter faith organisations are also included. The resource concludes with a chart providing an overview of aspects of inter faith activity covered by IFN’s member National and Regional Inter Faith Organisations and Educational and Academic bodies, to help the reader to find out who to contact depending on their interest.

Next Steps can be downloaded from the Inter Faith Week website at www.interfaithweek.org/resources/next-steps.

Media and social media

Inter Faith Week 2016 was covered in a variety of national, regional and local media platforms, including faith and cultural news coverage. National news outlets such as the Huffington Post covered the Week, along with faith and cultural news outlets, such as the Jewish News or the Mormon Newsroom. Many local newspapers also covered the Week, with the Sunderland Echo, the Ely Standard, the Warrington Guardian and the Yorkshire Post being just a few. The Week was also covered by several BBC Local Radio stations and others, such as Premier Christian Radio.

Inter Faith Week 2016 was also marked by a high social media buzz. Inter Faith Week was active on Twitter and Facebook in the build up to the Week and throughout the Week itself. Inter Faith Week is on Twitter at @IFWeek and is on Facebook at www.facebook.com/ifweek. On Twitter, use of the hashtag #ifweek was encouraged. In total, tweets about the Week reached 5.9 million Twitter users, the most to date, registering around 19.7 million impressions. On Facebook, people were encouraged to 'like' the Inter Faith Week page.

Inter Faith Week 2017

A report on the 2016 Week with a section looking forward to the 2017 Week was published in July: Stories from 2016, Inspiration for 2017 can be downloaded at www.interfaithweek.org/resources/inter-faith-week-stories-from-2016-inspiration-for-2017.

THE UK AND THE WIDER WORLD

Steve Miller, London Boroughs Faiths Network; and Vijay Krishnarayan, Commonwealth Foundation, at IFN National Meeting

A number of IFN's member bodies, such as UK branches of international inter faith organisations, have a particular focus on inter faith activity and cross-faith work globally.

The focus of IFN's own work is the UK. However, IFN's work – and inter faith work in the UK more generally is of interest to governments, researchers, students and inter faith practitioners in other countries. Many make contact as part of exploring good practice around the world.

In October IFN's Assistant Director attended a conference organised by the Organisation for Security and Co-operation in Europe on the theme of 'Tolerance and Diversity'. Over the course of the year IFN's Executive Director also received visitors from Osaka University, Japan and the Universities of Amsterdam and Groningen, both in the Netherlands, to discuss inter faith relations in the UK. IFN's Executive Director also met with Mr Pekka Metso, Ambassador at large for Intercultural and Interreligious Dialogue Processes from the Finnish Ministry for Foreign Affairs; and with the Assistant Director, met with Mr Elias Carlberb, Support Officer to the Swedish Interfaith Council. The Inter Faith Development Officer attended a reception organised by the London Boroughs Faiths Network to meet with visitors from Berlin as part of the 'Interfaith, Cities and Government' project of the European Council of Religious Leaders.

At the National Meeting in July a discussion group was included on the theme of 'Sharing good practice internationally', facilitated by Vijay Krishnarayan, Director-General, Commonwealth Foundation, and included a presentation from Dr Samuel (Sami) Everett, Co-lead researcher on the Woolf Institute 'Trust in Crisis' international research project.

SUPPORT THE INTER FAITH NETWORK'S WORK TO INCREASE INTER FAITH UNDERSTANDING AND COOPERATION

THE IMPORTANCE OF YOUR SUPPORT

We need your help to ensure that the Inter Faith Network for the UK's work to promote inter faith understanding and cooperation continues and grows, helping people of all backgrounds to live and work together with mutual respect and shared commitment to the common good.

Please consider making a gift today to support the work of the Inter Faith Network. Gifts at all levels are valued and make a difference. You can donate on our website at www.interfaith.org.uk/donate or via PayPal or JustGiving or by sending a cheque to The Inter Faith Network for the UK, 2 Grosvenor Gardens, London SW1W 0DH.

Thank You!

REMEMBERING A FAMILY MEMBER OR FRIEND

From time to time we receive an 'in memoriam' gift after an individual has passed away, funded from a collection following their death or through a donation from their heirs. Such gifts provide a living memorial to a loved one, supporting inter faith understanding in this country – for now and for the future. If you would like to make a gift in memory of a loved one, please get in touch by emailing remember@interfaith.org.uk or call us on 0207 730 0410.

A GIFT IN YOUR WILL

By leaving a gift in your will to the Inter Faith Network for the UK, you can leave a living inheritance to help deepen and strengthen inter faith understanding and cooperation in this country – for now and for the future. If you are thinking about making a will, the best thing to do is to get in touch with a professional will writer, such as a solicitor or advocate; they can help to ensure it is legally correct and that your wishes are met. If you have already made a will, you can still make an addition or amendment in the form of a codicil. If you would like to pledge a gift, please provide our name and address, along with our registered charity number 1068934.

Please get in touch with us if you have any queries. You can call Hannah Cassidy, on 0207 730 0410 or contact us at remember@interfaith.org.uk.

Every gift, however large or small, makes a difference.
